An update from Dance Central: We thank you all for being patient as we move our studio online. We've had a great time connecting with our students again and continuing the learning process. Please see the special note about Zoom classes below.

I know many of you have questions about upcoming dates that we have scheduled (photos, rehearsals, recital, etc.). Please know that we are working behind the scenes to make the best decisions possible, when we can. We want our dancers to have all of the "end of the year" experiences and will do our best to make that happen.

So much is unknown at this time, and we are not able to make any firm commitments or even reschedules to our upcoming events. As soon as we know more about what the next few months look like, we will be able to make more solid decisions. We will inform you as soon as we know of any dates changing/rescheduling.

Zoom Classes - We are loving seeing all our students in our Zoom classes! Please remember we expect dancers to attend these just like their regular classes, to be dressed out in appropriate dancewear including shoes, and to have hair pulled back out of their face.

- Zoom privacy: In order protect the privacy of all dancers and classes, we will be emailing a Zoom password (it's the same for every class) to the email address we have on file. Please look for this password to continue attending classes. You will need to enter the class code and the Zoom password both to attend your class.
- Also to protect the privacy of our dancers, we also will not have an official "waiting room" while students wait for the teacher. If your student is on Zoom before the teacher is, they will just wait until the teacher's video pops up.
